

Your Degree What Next: Management Science and Information System Studies

What can I do with my degree?

M.S.I.S.S. graduates are highly regarded by employers, and upon graduating from this course you will have a strong skill set leading to opportunities in a wide range of careers within management consultancy, the financial services and the actuarial and accounting professions amongst others. Many graduates from your course work in information technology management, quality control, and marketing, while others pursue postgraduate study at home and abroad. Demand for M.S.I.S.S. graduates has always been steady as the wide ranging skill sets developed in the course of study together with the problem-solving and team-working skills you will have gained are highly sought after by employers. A high level of numeracy and fluency in the use of modern technology are a further attraction for employers. Typical graduate job titles and employers include:

Roles

Advisory Associate
Technology Consultant
Information Risk Management Trainee
Business and Systems Integration Analyst
Business Analyst
Credit Risk Analyst

Employers

EY
KPMG
Bearing Point
JP Morgan
Google
United Drug

While these are the types of jobs graduates of your course typically enter, many graduate roles are open to graduates of all disciplines, so your options are much broader than those related strictly to your course. If you're not sure what you'd like to do, check out the career planning resources on the Careers Service website and book an appointment with your careers consultant.

Graduate attributes and transferrable skills you can develop at Trinity

You gain a wide range of skills and attributes while at College, through academic study, clubs and societies, voluntary work, student politics, work and other commitments. These are important to recognize as they inform your career decisions and are a critical ingredient in your applications for postgraduate study and jobs.

Here are some skills you can gain :

1. Critical Thinking - The most fundamental part of a university education is learning to work on your own and to make independent judgments. You have to discover the information that you need to analyse complex questions and develop your ideas about them and to present your arguments clearly and persuasively.

2. Teamwork - Learning to work as part of a team is an important skill; sharing the workload, agreeing roles and working as a team to develop ideas, analyse information and present a coherent group argument.

3. Independent Research - You will have learnt how to use the library and other complex information resources and coordinate information from a wide variety of sources.

4. Logical argumentation - You will know how to bring together facts and arguments in order to answer a specific ques-

5. Time and project management - By working on assignments and studying for exams you will have developed the ability to revise and consolidate your work and know how to extract the essential points from a mass of information. You will also have learned how to manage your own time and to work under pressure of deadlines.

6. Verbal communication - You will know how to present your ideas orally and to contribute constructively to discussions.

7. Written communication - You will have had the opportunity to present your ideas in writing accurately and concisely, using convincing arguments which are based on solid evidence; responding flexibly to different types of questions and expressing your thoughts concisely; carrying out in-depth research on a specialised topic and develop the sustained writing skills needed.

8. Digital Skills - You will have the opportunity of developing your computer skills both from typing up your own essays and papers and from undertaking searches on the web & using databases.

9. Personal Development – You are managing the learning required for a degree and recognising the gaps in your understanding and ensuring that these are addressed in ways that best suit your learning style.
