Conditions of School of Education Scholarship

This award is open to new graduate students and continuing graduate students undertaking full-time research in the School of Education subject to availability of resources and supervision in the chosen area. It is offered subject to the following conditions:

- the holders must engage in full-time research and must register/or be registered for a Ph.D. degree with the School of Education, University of Dublin;
- holders are required to engage in relevant academic and professional activities as determined by the Director of Teaching and Learning (Postgraduate). Within such activities, teaching-related commitments are limited to a maximum of six hours per week and are governed by guidelines provided by the Graduate Studies Committee;
- income received by applicants from other sources (such as private tuition, research funding), can be to the maximum annual income level of €18,000 excluding fees but including the studentship maintenance. The receipt of any additional funding must be notified immediately to the School Administrator in the School of Education and the Staff Office payroll;
- studentships cannot continue beyond the fourth year on the Ph.D. register;
- successful students may not be simultaneous holders of Government of Ireland or Research Councils' awards (or any other awards with a similar monetary value).