Paula will present “Listening to young people with social, emotional and behavioural difficulties; a student voice approach to positive engagement”. This presentation will explore the potential for ‘active agency’ and ‘empowerment’ of students identified with difficulties encompassed within the broad spectrum descriptor of social, emotional and behavioural difficulties (SEBD). Empowering the voices of children and young people is especially pertinent in light of Ireland’s 2012 Children’s Rights Referendum.

The conference is open to the public to attend. Further detail and registration is available in the Events section of the PSI website, http://www.psihq.ie.
