INCOMING VISITING STUDENTS - FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. I want to apply to study abroad in the engineering school, how do I apply?
   Please see the How to Apply Section in the Engineering website under Incoming -> Visiting and Exchange Students

2. I have been made an offer to study in Trinity in the engineering, what do I do next?
   Follow the instructions given in your acceptance letter.

3. Which modules can I take?
   A full list of modules available in the Engineering School (along with guidance on module registration) can be found on the Engineering website under Incoming -> Visiting and Exchange Students -> Which modules can I study. It is essential that you consult your coordinator in your home university to get your modules approved, so that you fulfil your own degree requirements.

4. What is it like studying in Trinity?
   Please see International Section -> Admissions and Student Services -> Student Life. Also read the How to Study at Trinity guide book.

5. Are there many international students in the Engineering School?
   We welcome students from all over the world via our exchange programmes, and have many a number of full degree international students, so you will see a lot of diversity within our school, and within college generally.

6. Is it easy to get to know people?
   There are lots of events held by the Global Room, Trinity International Student Society and the Engineering School to help you get to know other students.

7. How are the modules assessed?
   Details of module assessment can be found in each module description.

8. Are all classes mandatory?
   Yes, all lectures, labs and tutorials to which you are assigned are mandatory.