

Just Published

This is the fourth book in a series established by PSAI with started with How Ireland Voted, 1987. This current volume contains in-depth analysis on the 1997 general and presidential election and places particular attention to the election campaign and the characteristics of the new Dail.

The book is edited by Michael Marsh (Trinity College Dublin) and Paul Mitchell (Queens University Belfast) and is a joint publication of Westview and PSAI Press.

ISBN 0-8133-3217-6(hc)
ISBN 0-8133-3218-4(pb)

335pp. Price: approx £24.00

List of Contents

Preface

Part 1: The Campaigning

- | | | |
|----|--|--|
| 1. | Political competition, 1992-97 | Brian Girvin |
| 2. | Organisational preparation and political marketing | Michael Holmes |
| 3. | Candidate selection | Yvonne Galligan |
| 4. | Party manifestos | John Garry and Lucy Mansergh |
| 5. | On the campaign trail | Charles Flanagan and Niamh Bhreathnach |

Part Two: Results, Analysis, Aftermath

- | | | |
|-----|---|-----------------------------------|
| 6. | The results analysed | Michael Gallagher |
| 7. | The behaviour of the Irish voter | Michael Marsh and Richard Sinnott |
| 8. | The 28th Dáil | Mary-Clare O'Sullivan |
| 9. | The Senate elections | John Coakley and Maurice Manning |
| 10. | The making of the eighth President | Michael Marsh |
| 11. | Government formation: a tale of two coalitions | Paul Mitchell |
| 12. | The Irish party system approaching the millennium | Michael Laver |

Appendix A: Fianna Fáil and Progressive Democrat Agreement for Government: An Action Programme For the New Millennium

Appendix B: Election results

Appendix C: Exit polls

Appendix D: Note on the electoral system

Appendix E: The Government and Ministers of State

Appendix F: Members of the 28th Dáil