

"Nineteen Fifty Sixes" Resistance and Memories in the Eastern Bloc

Workshop organised by the School of Languages, Literatures and Cultural Studies
Long Room Hub, 7 October 2011

Programme

12.15-12.30 Introduction

12.30-13.00 Clemens Ruthner (TCD), Contested memories in Central and Eastern Europe – A brief introduction

13.00-13.30 Kevin McDermott (Sheffield Hallam University), Resistance and Conformity in Stalinist Czechoslovakia

13.30-14.00 Gábor Gyáni (Hungarian Academy of Sciences, Eötvös Loránd University), New approaches to the '56 Revolution in today's Hungarian historical scholarship

14.00-14.30 Coffee break

14.30-15.00 Ewa Stanczyk (TCD), Commemorating Poznan '56

15.00-15.30 András Mink (Open Society Archives, Central European University, Budapest), Meanings of an uprising: The changing images of 1956 in Hungary

15.30-15.50 Leila Hadj-Abdou (European University Institute, Florence), Collective memory and contemporary debates about immigrants in Austria. Does 1956 matter? (Discussion input)

15.50-16.20 General discussion

The workshop is part of the School's IDENTITY:WORKSHOP series and the European Studies lecture series

If you would like to register for the workshop please email Balázs Apor at: aporb@tcd.ie