WHY DO WE CHOOSE OUR TRAINEES SO CAREFULLY?...

...Because we're not just choosing trainees

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for the very best legal training available in Ireland, consider this. Almost every graduate who joins us as a trainee remains with us after qualification. And the large majority of our partners originally began their own legal careers with the firm. So when we ask you to join us as a trainee, we're seeing you as a future colleague.

That's why we invest so heavily in planning, resourcing and delivering our in-house training programme - and in continuing professional development post-qualification, right throughout your career with us.

We want to enable your progress, because we know that's the best way for us to enable ours. To find out more, contact us on graduates@mccannfitzgerald.com.

Summary of Business:

Court of Justice of the European Union, Directorate-General for Multilingualism The Court, which has its seat in Luxembourg, is the judicial authority of the European Union and, in cooperation with the courts and tribunals of the Member States, it ensures the uniform application and interpretation of EU law. As each Member State has its own language and specific legal system, the Court of Justice of the European Union is a multilingual institution with a legal translation service and an interpretation service.

Graduate & Internship Opportunities:

The Court is seeking to recruit Dlítheangeolaithe le Gaeilge (Irish language lawyer-linguists), English language lawyer-linguists and English language Interpreters. They are lawyers with outstanding linguistic abilities, who are experienced in drafting, checking and revising legal texts. Lawyer-linguists must be able to discern precisely what EU legal texts intend to convey, and faithfully reflect that intention in their own language. An interpreter works in real time making communication possible between the speaker and the person hearing the oral submissions, faithfully conveying a message expressed orally in a language other than that of the speaker. Every year, the Court offers a number of paid traineeships of a duration of five months. Traineeships are undertaken in different services throughout the Court including at the Directorate-General for Multilingualism. Job opportunities in other Services of the Court (e.g. as Referendaires or as Legal administrators in a registry or in the fields of library services, research and documentation) are listed on the Court's website.

Method of Application:

The vast majority of staff in the Court's services are recruited from the reserve lists of open competitions organised by the European Personnel Selection Office (EPSO). Temporary staff are also recruited by the Court. These posts are listed on the Court's website, applicants can apply for these positions through the website.

Target Groups:

We would like to talk to law students from every level. Many lawyer-linguists working at the Court have undergraduate degrees in different disciplines as well as the required legal qualification.

Applicants for the lawyer-linguist positions must satisfy the following minimum requirements: Have successfully completed a suitable course in law (i.e. hold a degree in law or its equivalent awarded in the United Kingdom or Ireland) or have qualified as a barrister, advocate or solicitor in the United Kingdom or Ireland. Have a perfect command of English or Irish. Have a thorough knowledge of French. Have a satisfactory knowledge of a third official language of the European Union. ## The Honorable Society of King's Inns

Summary of Business:

Founded in 1541, the Honorable Society of King's Inns is Ireland's oldest Law School. Many famous legal and political figures over the past five centuries were educated at the King's Inns. Whether you want a qualification equivalent to a law degree (Diploma in Legal Studies), want to qualify as a barrister (Barrister-at-Law Degree), or want to learn about the law in niche areas like the medical profession, quasi-judicial decision-making, data protection, education, planning, white-collar crime, public procurement, immigration, the democratic process, and juvenile justice (Advanced Diploma), the King's Inns has the right course for you.

Graduate & Internship Opportunities

The Diploma in Legal Studies provides a route to qualification as a barrister to those who don't have a law degree. But the Diploma is a stand-alone qualification in its own right. Diploma graduates are in the same position as law-degree graduates for the purposes of the Barrister-at-Law Degree. Because the Diploma and Degree run on a part-time basis (the Degree runs on a full-time basis as well), they are suitable for those in employment or with other commitments which would make doing a full-time course impractical. Our Advanced Diplomas cater for people interested in continuing professional development.

Method of Application:

Apply online at <https://www.kingsinns.ie/prospective-students/apply-now>.

Target Groups:

Candidates in the final year of any degree, postgraduate students. Law-degree graduates are eligible to write the Barrister-at-Law-Degree Entrance Examination. Our Advanced Diplomas are open to lawyers and non-lawyers.

The Service operates in a fast-changing and outward-facing environment with the flexibility to be responsive to the needs of our key stakeholders (undergraduate and postgraduate students, graduates, academic staff and employers).

We provide careers education, information, skills and guidance to students and recent graduates to enable them to realise their career potential, to connect with employers and/or postgraduate programme providers, and to equip them with the skills to succeed in the workplace of the future.

We help them to identify and articulate how their learning experiences, both formal (through their programme learning outcomes) and informal (through their co- and extra-curricular activities), contribute to their intellectual and personal development. We also engage and collaborate with national and international organisations to ensure local and global employment opportunities for students and graduates.
