

Building Dublin's Victorian Suburbs

WHAT?

Dublin's 'princely mansions'

The project is an in depth investigation of high quality Victorian domestic architecture in Dublin, within the broader context of the nineteenth-century city.

WHY?

Value and extent

This work provides a unique formal and historical record of a prolific and valuable building type in the city.

HOW?

Interdisciplinary research:

- Land tenure
- Architectural design
- Financing
- Materials and detailed construction
- Spatial organisation

SOURCES?

Original historical maps, drawings and deeds were examined in detail and merged with material evidence in the form of measured drawings and photographic surveys.

