

IRISH PHILOSOPHICAL CLUB
ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2017

The Club will hold its next meeting on Friday and Saturday, 10th and 11th February 2017 at the Boyne Valley Hotel & Country Club (<http://www.boyne-valley-hotel.ie>) in Drogheda (B&B Single Room: €62; Twin/Double Room : €85; Conference Dinner (Friday): €26.50)

Programme

Friday, February 10

7:00–8:30 Tatjana von Solodkoff (University College Dublin)
 "Immortality"
8:30 Dinner

Saturday, February 11

9:00–9:30 AGM

9:30–11:00 Don Ross (University College Cork)
 "The Neglected Philosophy of Macroeconomics"

11:30–1:00 David Archard (Queen's University, Belfast)
 "Respecting Age: What We Owe the Old"

1:00–2:00 Lunch

2:00—3:30 Ben Bramble (Trinity College, Dublin)
 "Why the Virtuous Are Better Off"

All those those planning to stay at the hotel and/or go to the dinner are asked to contact either Jim Levine, Department of Philosophy, Trinity College, Dublin (jlevine@tcd.ie), Joseph Diekemper, School of Politics, International Studies, and Philosophy, Queen's University, Belfast (j.diekemper@qub.ac.uk), or Jim O'Shea, School of Philosophy, University College Dublin (jim.oshea@ucd.ie) not later than Wednesday 1st February.

2016-17 Subscription fee (waived for students) of £8 sterling or €10 (which includes the Conference Registration Fee) may be paid at the conference to Jim O'Shea, UCD.