

Access Control System Privacy Statement

Introduction

This Privacy Statement concerns the Trinity College Dublin Access Control System (“the System”) in connection with the processing of personal data for the purposes of the System and the steps taken by Trinity College Dublin (“Trinity College” / “the University”) as a data controller to safeguard individuals’ rights under data protection legislation, specifically the EU General Data Protection Regulation (“GDPR”) and Data Protection Acts 1988-2018.

Trinity College fully respects your right to privacy and actively seeks to preserve the privacy rights of data subjects who share personal data with the University. Any personal information which is processed by the System will be treated with the highest standards of security and confidentiality, in accordance with data protection legislation.

This Privacy Statement explains the following

- How we collect your personal data
- The purpose and legal basis for processing your personal data
- How we securely store your personal data
- Details of third parties with whom we share personal data
- Your rights under data protection legislation

How we collect your personal data

We collect personal data to provide a safe and secure environment at Trinity College for the Trinity Community. Data processed by the System is collected from other secure systems under the control of Trinity College. Only the minimum and necessary data is processed for the purposes of the System.

Purpose and legal basis for processing personal data

Trinity College ensures that your data is processed fairly and lawfully in keeping with the principles of data protection as set out under Article 5 GDPR.

The personal data processed by the System is processed for the specific and lawful purposes of maintaining campus security and complying with public health guidelines, to ensure safety. This is achieved by restricting access to Trinity-controlled estates and restricted areas within the estate to authorised personnel only. The System is not used for any other purpose, such as to monitor the location or attendance or personnel.

The legal basis for processing personal data in this instance is:

Article 6(1)(e) GDPR: Processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority vested in the controller.

How we securely store your personal data

Personal data is stored confidentially and securely as required by the Trinity College Information Systems Security Policy and Data Protection Policy. The University is committed to ensuring that your data is safeguarded by appropriate technical and organisational security measures relevant to the processing in accordance with Article 32 GDPR requirements.

When we store your personal data on our systems the data will be stored either on University premises or on secure IT platforms within the European External Area (“EEA”) or external of the EEA which are subject to Chapter V GDPR requirements.

A Data Protection Impact Assessment has been carried out on the System, per Article 35 GDPR, in order to review and mitigate potential data protection risks associated with the processing of personal data via the System.

Details of third parties with whom we share personal data

Trinity College will only share your data with third parties where necessary for the purposes of processing outlined in this Privacy Statement. In accordance with Article 28 GDPR, when we share your data with third parties Trinity College ensures that the data is processed according to specific instructions and that the same standards of confidentiality and security are maintained at all times.

How long we retain your data

In keeping with the data protection principle of storage limitation we will only retain your data for as long as is necessary for the purpose of providing services relevant to Trinity College requirements and in accordance with the Trinity College Records Management Policy.

Your rights under data protection law

You have the following rights over the way we process your personal data. For further information please see the Trinity College Data Subject Rights Requests Procedure.

Right of Access

You have the right to request a copy of the personal data which is processed by the System and to exercise that right easily and at reasonable intervals.

Rectification

You have the right to have inaccuracies in personal data that we hold about you rectified.

Erasure

You have the right to have your personal data deleted where we no longer have any justification for retaining it, subject to exemptions such as the use of pseudonymised or anonymised data for scientific research purposes.

Object

You have the right to object to processing your personal data if you believe the processing to be disproportionate or unfair to you. Trinity College reserves the right to challenge any such request on the grounds that the processing is required, necessary and proportionate.

Restriction

You have the right to restrict the processing of your personal data if:

- you are contesting the accuracy of the personal data;
- the personal data is processed unlawfully;
- you need to prevent the erasure of the personal data in order to comply with legal obligations or
- you have objected to the processing of the personal data and wish to restrict the processing until a legal basis for continued processing has been verified.
