As we enter the second decade of global engagement at Trinity College, we are emerging from a pandemic and the College community has welcomed a new Provost, Dr. Linda Doyle.

This provides us with an opportunity for reflection as well as an exciting landscape for planning for the next decade and beyond for Trinity’s global engagement.

We began the year with a new name – Trinity Global – and a continued commitment to engaging with our community, stakeholders and partners to develop a common understanding of what being a globally connected and engaged university means for all of us.

Ar scáth a chéile a mhaireann na daoine: In the shelter of each other the people live and now, more than ever in most of our lifetimes, this is an absolute truth. We recognise this in all that we do in Trinity Global – how we work with our students, our partnerships, our networks and our connections at home and abroad. It is evidenced in the supports we have started and will continue to put in place to support displaced students and scholars from the war in Ukraine through the establishment of our Global Incident Response Unit. It is also framed in our recognition of our need to consider the impact of our activities and actions to ensure they are inclusive and sustainable.

This ‘new look’ annual report highlights and celebrates our work in the past academic year. We showcase our students and provide you with a snapshot of all our activities. None of this work is possible without our Trinity Global team including our Ambassadors, Officers, Directors and our wider team of stellar supporters. It will take you on a journey through our key highlights, the Trinity Global student experience, our networks and alliances including CHARM-EU, our partnerships and global mobility.

Along the way you will get to meet some of our people – key to our collective success and our shared vision. To all with whom we work, we are immensely grateful.

Dr. Emma K. Stokes
Vice President for Global Engagement

We are a globally connected community of learning, research and scholarship, inspiring generations to meet the challenges of the future.
