Understanding Ireland offers international students the best possible foundation for settling into their time at Trinity. The programme is unique in providing both an orientation to life in Trinity and an academic introduction to understanding Irish culture—all before normal teaching begins.

WHAT WILL I BE STUDYING?
Understanding Ireland immerses you in the rich world of Irish history, art & architecture, literature and culture. There are three academic themes to the course:

- The Story of Ireland: From St Patrick to the Present Day
- Visualizing Ireland: Archaeology, Art and Architecture
- Representing Ireland: Ireland and Irish Identity in Literature and Culture

As well as attending lectures and participating in small-group discussions (seminars), the programme includes a field trip to a site of major historical importance, such as the Hill of Tara or Glendalough. You will also visit national cultural institutions and historical landmarks around Dublin, such as The Abbey Theatre (founded by W. B. Yeats in 1904) and Croke Park, headquarters of the Gaelic Athletics Association (GAA).

WHO RUNS THE PROGRAMME?
Understanding Ireland is organized and taught by the academic staff of Trinity’s School of Histories and Humanities. The programme runs at the beginning each semester prior to the start of normal teaching. Full details of the academic content of the programme are available in the Understanding Ireland handbook, which is available on our webpage.

VISITING OR EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Autumn Entry (5 ECTs): If you are a visiting or exchange student coming to Trinity for a year or a single semester, the three-week autumn programme is for you. The programme begins three weeks before teaching term and covers the first one-sixth of your semester work commitment at Trinity (5 ECTs), with the remainder being covered by the other undergraduate courses you choose for that semester.

Spring Entry (not credit-bearing): If you are arriving in Trinity for the spring term, you have the option to take a week-long version of Understanding Ireland, which runs in the week before normal teaching begins in January. The week-long programme offers an overview of Irish history and culture through a combination of lectures and field trips. This course is optional, carries an additional cost and does not qualify for credit.

Fees
Both the Autumn and Spring programmes incur an additional fee. For students participating in institutional exchanges, this cost will be additional to the fees charged by your home university.
