

Trinity College Dublin
Coláiste na Tríonóide, Baile Átha Cliath
The University of Dublin

New flexible and stackable course

Applied Intercultural Communications
MPhil (Master's Degree), Diploma and Certificate

School of Languages, Literatures and Cultural Studies

Applied Intercultural Communications

The MPhil (Master's degree), Postgraduate Diploma and Postgraduate Certificate in Applied Intercultural Communications are designed as both stand-alone and linked courses through the top-up progression. They are delivered by the Centre for Global Intercultural Communications at Trinity College Dublin and are part of the postgraduate suite of courses in the School of Languages, Literatures and Cultural Studies.

Why Applied Intercultural Communications?

The significance of the increase in global mobility is unquestionable. In many workplaces, cultural diversity is currently the norm. Intercultural communication plays an important role in the functioning of societies, organisations and in individual performance. However, whilst working in a culturally diverse environment makes interpersonal, social and professional interactions more interesting and exciting, cross-cultural communication comes with its challenges.

Developing intercultural competences is vital for advancing equitable global collaborations in industry, society and academia. The programmes will provide participants with novel perspectives and methods for effective intercultural communication at work, strategic partnerships, inclusive leadership and global engagement.

Registrations are open and will close on 31st of July 2022

www.tcd.ie/courses/postgraduate/courses/applied-intercultural-communications-mphil/

Applied Intercultural Communications

Applied focus

Our applied mode is supported by case studies to illustrate how intercultural communication works on the ground in global contexts. The programmes combine international case studies, student-led case studies and practical activities, based on their own experiences. The applied focus is complemented by research and practice-driven components, potentially linking African, Asian, Latin American and Caribbean, and Middle Eastern case studies to European cultures and contexts.

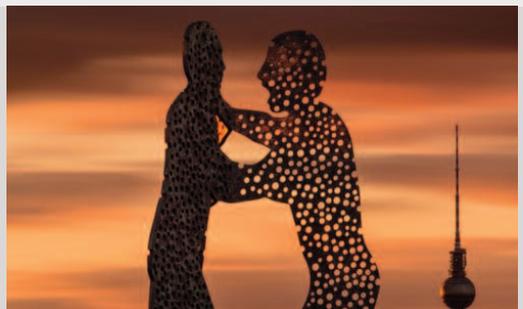

What will you learn in these programmes?

- Communicate effectively within multicultural teams
- Engage in collaborative learning and apply digital literacy
- Relate the analysis of cultural diversity to different cultural perspectives
- Design, analyse, reflect and present a project to diverse audiences
- Identify research topics, formulate hypotheses and questions
- Use the knowledge and skills gained for further research and programmes

Who is this course for?

These programmes will be of interest to organisations and individuals wishing to further develop their skills, careers and business opportunities by applying intercultural communication methods to succeed in multicultural contexts.

Our flexible course is delivered through full time, part time and multiple entry route options.

Applications are assessed on merit and places are allocated on a first-come first-served basis

www.tcd.ie/courses/postgraduate/courses/applied-intercultural-communications-mphil/

Applied Intercultural Communications

Previous knowledge of the area and foreign language skills are not required.

Course fees

Enquire with Elisabetta Favero,
 Manager of the Centre for Global Intercultural Communications at faveroe@tcd.ie