

Ethics Policy

1. Context

Trinity College Dublin, the University of Dublin, hereafter referred to as Trinity, is committed to upholding standards of ethical conduct. This Ethics Policy sets out Trinity's values and ethical principles. These are critical to the University's reputation and are embedded in how the business of the University, our teaching and research and all other activities, is conducted. The Policy and principles therein are in accordance with the legislative context within which Trinity operates which is circumscribed by its Charter and Letters Patents presented in the 2010 Consolidated Statutes of the University, the government legislation described in the Universities Act 1997 as amended by the Higher Education Authority Act 2022, and by the private legislation relating to the University: the Trinity College, Dublin (Charters and Letters Patent Amendment) Act (2000), as well as by the general legislative context in Ireland. The autonomy of the institution is provided for within this context of accountability.

Trinity is fully committed to adherence to the standards set out in the Ethics in Public Office Act 1995 and Standards in Public Office Act 2001.

This policy upholds the provisions of the Code of Practice for the Governance of State Bodies 2016 and Trinity's Code of Conduct for Members of the Board and of Principal Committees of Board and Code of Conduct for Employees as they pertain to ethical conduct.

2. Purpose

The purpose of the policy is to define the standards of ethical conduct that the University upholds. Adhering to these standards will ensure that the University conducts its business in compliance with national, European and all applicable international legislation, agreements, treaties and protocols. It will also ensure that the University and its suppliers conduct their affairs to the highest ethical standards in keeping with the University's commitment to the principles of natural justice, due process and to the protection of civil and human rights, and to sustainability.

3. Scope

The Ethics Policy applies to all Trinity employees, and students involved in teaching and assessment.

4. Principles

The University shall conduct its business in accordance with the values enshrined in its Strategic Plan and with the following principles:

4.1 Public interest

Decisions shall be made solely in terms of the public interest, in the context of University policies, without any intention of financial or other material benefit for employees, their family or their friends.

4.2 Integrity

All members of the University community shall be mindful, in soliciting or receiving any form of financial or other assistance towards the performance of their scholarly, administrative or other duties, of the necessity to avoid placing themselves under any improper influence or obligations which could compromise the integrity of their activities and shall, as appropriate, declare all potential conflicts of interest.

All members of the University community shall uphold the principles set out in the Council-approved Statement of Principles on Integrity<sup>1</sup>.

4.3 Objectivity

In carrying out University business, including making appointments and awarding contracts, choices shall be made on merit.

4.4 Accountability

University employees shall be accountable for their decisions and actions to the public and shall submit themselves to whatever scrutiny is appropriate to their office.

4.5 Openness

University employees shall be as open as possible about all decisions and actions that they take. They should give reasons for their decisions and restrict information only when the wider public interest clearly demands it.

4.6 Honesty

University employees shall declare any private interests relating to their University duties and take steps to resolve any conflicts arising in a way that protects the public interest in accordance with the Conflict of Interest Policy.
