|---|---|
| Module Description | Macro development is a relatively new field within economics at the intersection of macroeconomics and development economics. A central question in macro development is why there are such large differences in living standards across countries. This module provides an introduction to macro development, and focuses on a number of key topics, such as the role of misallocation across firms, informality, sectoral productivity differences, and short-and long-run effects of public investment. |
| Module Learning Aims | |
| Learning Outcomes | On completion of the module, students will be able to understand the key issues covered in the course and critically evaluate and discuss these contributions in the field of macro development. |
| Indicative Reading / Resources | A detailed reading list will be provided at the start of the course. |
