MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Prof. Anne-Marie Brady

We proudly present the 2023/24 Annual Report from which you will acquire a sense of the breadth and depth of the research that is undertaken within the Centre. We use a wide range of methodological approaches, undertake research in a broad range of settings and across various topic areas. We trust that you will find this report as interesting as the Centre is innovative. We hope that it provides you with insight to the importance of nurse-led research that informs healthcare practice and supports research capacity building which is relevant to the research landscape in Ireland and on a global scale. The TCPHI is recognized for robust integrated nurse-led clinical research infrastructure between Trinity's School of Nursing & Midwifery in partnership with affiliated healthcare partners and other external organizations/sectors.

We aim to develop, implement and evaluate novel healthcare interventions and models of care. We generate research income from national and international sources to enable such innovation. The TCPHI is an Affiliate Centre of the Joanna Briggs Institute (JBI) and many of our staff have published systematic reviews. Our major strengths include expertise in Grounded Theory, Mixed Methods and Statistics.

TCPHI is hosted within the School of Nursing & Midwifery, Trinity College Dublin. An Executive Committee is in place which is comprised of representatives from the various disciplines within the School as follows:

- Professor Anne-Marie Brady, Director of TCPHI
- Dr Gobnait Byrne, Assistant Professor in General Nursing
- Professor Catherine Comiskey, Professor in Healthcare Modelling
- Professor Imelda Coyne, Professor in Children's Nursing
- Professor Amanda Phelan, Professor in Ageing and Community Nursing
- Dr Catherine McCabe, Associate Professor
- Dr Louise Daly, Associate Professor in Ageing and Community Nursing
- Dr John Dinsmore, Associate Professor in Digital Health
- Dr Carmel Doyle, Assistant Professor in Intellectual Disability Nursing
- Dr Brian Keogh, Associate Professor in Mental Health Nursing
- Dr Ekaterina Kozina, Research Projects Officer
- Mr Frank O'Rourke, School Manager

Meet Our Team

TCPHI EXECUTIVE

Anne Marie Brady

Professor Anne-Marie Brady, Director of TCPHI, has led the Research Centre through the challenges of the last year. Prof Brady will continue to act as Director for the next academic year.

Professor Brady is Chair of Nursing and Chronic Illness. She served as Head of School (2017-20) and Director of TCPHI (2014-17). She is a Registered General Nurse with 30 years of clinical practice, education and research experience in nursing and healthcare management

Gobnait Byrne

Gobnait is the Principal Investigator of the HSE Community Healthcare Dublin South, Kildare & West Wicklow Public Health Nursing Services collaboration. Gobnait's research interests include health promotion, health of marginalized groups including migrants, cardiovascular health, community nursing and critical care outreach.

Catherine Comiskey

Professor Catherine Comiskey is Professor in Healthcare Modelling and Statistics. Catherine leads on quantitative research within the School and is responsible for the overall strategic development in this area. Catherine's research interests includes Addiction, Epidemiology, Children and International Research Capacity Building.

Imelda Coyne

Imelda Coyne is Professor in Children's Nursing. Imelda's research focuses on child participation rights, shared decision-making, child and family-centred care, technological interventions for chronic illness management and transition from child to adult services.

Catherine McCabe

Dr. Catherine McCabe is an Associate Professor and Registered General Nurse with over 20 years' experience in nursing and healthcare practice. Catherine has a particular interest in how technology can be used in healthcare contexts to improve care, patients experiences in acute care settings and quality of life. Catherine is currently Dean of Students.

Louise Daly

Dr Louise Daly is an Associate Professor in Ageing and Community Nursing and the Head of Discipline for General Nursing. Louise's research interests include care of the older adult, dementia care and health care ethics.

John Dinsmore

Dr John Dinsmore is an Associate Professor in Digital Health. He is the Postgraduate Course Coordinator for Mental Health. John's core research focuses on the application of health psychology and behavioural science to the fields of digital health and digital integrated care, with specific emphasis on proactive person-centred ageing and chronic disease/ multimorbidity management.

Carmel Doyle

Dr Carmel Doyle is Assistant Professor in Nursing and Head of Discipline for Intellectual Disability Nursing. Carmel's areas of interest in research are intellectual disabilities and children's nursing. Carmel is the Principal Investigator for the Intellectual Disability services collaboration with TCPHI (Stewarts Care Ltd., Muiríosa Foundation & Peamount Healthcare).

Michael Nash

Dr Michael Nash, Associate Professor in Mental Health Nursing and Head of Discipline for Mental Health. Research interests include physical health and wellbeing in severe mental illness, clinical risk assessment and management, models of community mental healthcare, social inclusion and mental illness.

Brian Keogh

Dr Brian Keogh is an Associate Professor in Mental Health Nursing. Brian's research interests include mental health recovery and stigma, dementia, suicide and self-harm. Brian is the Principal Investigator for the collaboration with St. Patrick's Mental Health Services.

Frank O'Rourke

Mr Frank O'Rourke is the School Manager. Frank leads on the strategic, financial, HR and governance decisions for the School of Nursing and Midwifery.

Ekaterina Kozina

Dr Ekaterina Kozina is Research Projects Officer for the School of Nursing & Midwifery. Ekaterina provides support to academic staff in the identification and development of research opportunities from research applications up to and including contract signing.

ASSOCIATED ACADEMIC STAFF

Patricia Cronin

Dr Patricia Cronin is an Assistant Professor in Nursing. Patricia has a particular research interest in the area of chronic illness.

Mary Mooney

Dr Mary Mooney is an Associate Professor. Mary's research background is in the field of Cardiology, with expertise in Innovation Critical Care.

Frances O'Brien

Dr Frances O'Brien is an Associate Professor. Frances has research expertise in critical care nursing, mixed methods research, intervention studies and randomised controlled trials.

Sharon O'Donnell

Dr Sharon O'Donnell is an Associate Professor and Director of Research for the School of Nursing & Midwifery for 2022/23. Sharon's research expertise is in gender and heart disease, cardiovascular nursing, mixed methods research, intervention studies and randomised controlled trials.

Anne-Marie Malone

Anne Marie lectures undergraduates and post-graduates in orthopaedics and nursing and health service policy and management. Her current research is in the health economics and osteoporosis and patient safety.

Jan De Vries

Dr. de Vries graduated in Psychology at Utrecht University, Netherlands and completed his PhD in TCD in 1999. He is with the School since 2007.

Kathleen Neenan

Kathleen teaches and supervises across undergraduate and postgraduate courses. She is the Educational facilitator for Emergency Department Nursing Masters Programme.

Mary Hughes

Mary is an Associate Professor and researcher, with expertise in Health and Wellbeing in Chronic Childhood Illness; adolescent health, asthma, and development of mobile health technology.

Melissa Corbally

Melissa is passionate about fostering excellence in general nursing practice and provides leadership in all aspects of her work. She has over 20 years' experience in nurse education and in 2018 was awarded a fellowship Ad Eundem of the Faculty of Nursing and Midwifery, Royal College of Surgeons Ireland for her outstanding contribution to nursing and nurse education

Peter Kelly

Peter is the course coordinator for the MSc/PG Dip and Cert in Mental Health. His research interests include substance misuse and addictions, addiction nursing, organisational and workforce development and implementation science.

Patricia Kavanagh

Patricia lectures on undergraduate and postgraduate programmes. Research Interests: Advanced Nurse Practice, Chronic Conditions, Autoimmune and Inflammatory Conditions and Bone Health.

Research Themes

The TCD School of Nursing & Midwifery is ranked 20th in the World in the QS World University Subject Rankings 2024. The research groups, the TCPHI represent areas of focused research among our research teams and which are led by research leaders in the respective fields.

- Alcohol, Addiction and Epidemiology
- Chronic Health and Oncology
- Digital Health
- Older Adults
- Collaboration with Health service Providers

SUCCESS STORIES

2023/24

At the recent launch of the Men's Aid Ireland Report Dr Melissa Corbally gave the keynote address which reported findings of a comparative study on helpline usage.

TCPHI PhD student Olayinka Aremu was the winner of the poster competition at the 20th International Nurses and Midwives conference 2023.

BEST APPLICATION OF AI IN SUSTAINABILITY

SEURO was shortlisted by AI Ireland Awards for the Best Application of AI to achieve Social Good. Well done to all involved. It is well deserved recognition for the hard work and dedication over the last few years.

2023/24

Trinity Research Development Office together with Prof. John Dinsmore held a brokerage event entitled “Digital Health Brokerage” on Nov 16th. The event brought together researchers across Trinity College Dublin to enable interdisciplinary networking and help advance future collaboration.

Prof. Catherine Comiskey was part of a panel discussion on Oireachtas TV about the brave recommendations to the Citizens’ Assembly on drugs and the impact on drugs and developing progressive, evidence led policy and tackling stigma and improving education.

VISUaAL held a careers day hosted by Prof. John Dinsmore, in which our researchers learned about different experiences in the transition from their current research to different career opportunities.

Success Stories 2023/24

Dr Filipa Teixeira from the SEURO team attended the 50 plus show at the RDS organised by the Senior Times Magazine.

TCPHI PhD student Ms Carita Bramhill received the best poster prize at the PFS Summit24 conference. Her work was entitled 'Unmet Needs of Patients Living with IPF'.

Congratulations to Professor Anne-Marie Brady, Chair of Nursing & Chronic Illness at Trinity and Director of Trinity Centre for Practice and Healthcare Innovation, on her appointment as the new Chair of the Tallaght University Hospital Board.

Dr Melissa Corbally presented her research on male domestic abuse to raise awareness and understanding of the issue at a 'Men Get Hurt Too' information morning organised by the Bagenalstown Family Resource Centre in Carlow.

Congratulations to Professor Catherine Comiskey and Professor Mary Hughes who received an award for excellence in supervision of research students, Health Sciences. These awards are an impressive testament to their commitment to research students

Success Stories 2023/24

Since its establishment in 2012, the Trinity Centre for Practice and Healthcare Innovation (TCPHI) has demonstrated a consistent and productive research trajectory, generating over 500 Scopus-indexed outputs. These include 358 journal articles, 5 books, 20 book chapters, 14 conference papers, 23 editorials and letters, and 76 reviews. These scholarly contributions have laid a strong foundation for continued influence across healthcare, academia, policy, and public well-being. While bibliometric data alone cannot fully capture research impact, it does provide insight into the uptake and reach of scholarly outputs. A range of measurable outcomes—often important precursors to broader societal impact—illustrate the centre’s increasing engagement and influence.

- Academic Citations: TCPHI's outputs have been cited nearly 10,000 times (9,584 citations in Scopus). The most cited article, Doyle et al. (2020), has received 878 citations, reflecting its prominence in nursing scholarship.
- Media Uptake: Altmetric data indicates that 498 of the centre's publications have received over 4,138 mentions across social media platforms.
- News Coverage: The centre's research has been featured 89 times in international and national news outlets, including Forbes, PLOS Medicine, Dermatology Times, The Irish News, and The Conversation.
- Blogs and Online References: Outputs have been referenced in over 30 blogs, including citations in Wikipedia (9 mentions) and YouTube (2 mentions), further supporting public and professional engagement.
- Policy Citations: A total of 129 publications have been cited in 114 policy documents spanning 25 countries. Notable citing bodies include the World Health Organization, OECD, the Analysis & Policy Observatory, and the European Observatory on Health Systems. Countries represented in these citations include Australia, Belgium, Ireland, France, Sweden, Canada, the UK, and the USA.
- Clinical Guidelines: Five outputs have been cited in clinical guidelines, signalling emerging translational value.
- Patent Citation: The work by Deparis et al. (2019) is referenced in a patent titled System and Method for Training a Machine Learning Model Based on User-Selected Factors, highlighting potential technological applications.

Research impact is broadly defined as demonstrable benefits to society, the economy, culture, public policy, health, or the environment. While impact often materialises over time, TCPHI is already contributing to key areas with potential for long-term societal benefit.

A woman with dark hair, wearing a white long-sleeved shirt and blue jeans, sits on a wooden chair. She is looking upwards towards a glowing yellow lightbulb. The lightbulb is surrounded by a large, circular cloud of hand-drawn black icons on a light gray background. These icons represent various fields: technology (laptop, smartphone, gear), business (bar chart, pie chart, dollar sign), science (atom, rocket, microscope), and general concepts (heart, lightbulb, gear, arrow). The overall scene suggests a moment of inspiration or a connection to a wide range of knowledge.

School of Nursing & Midwifery PhD Scholarships

2020 - 2030 Trinity College Dublin
School of Nursing and Midwifery
PhD Scholarship programme - A decade of building capacity in Nursing and Midwifery Research

Congratulations to Isabela Girleanu who has been awarded a PhD Scholarship. We would like to take the opportunity to wish her and her supervisors Prof. Anne-Marie Brady and Dr Vanessa Boland every success with the project

Congratulations to PhD student Fen Xie who was awarded a 2024 China Scholarship Council-Trinity College Dublin Joint Scholarship. Fen Xie is supervised By Prof. Anne-Marie Brady and Dr Louise Daly.

TCPHI Accreditation Committee

SHORT COURSES ACCREDITED 2023/24

The Accreditation Committee is Chaired by Dr Louise Gallagher. Committee membership is as follows:

- Dr. Thelma Begley, Assistant Professor. Thelma is involved in developing and delivering children's nursing education and research with a specific interest in adolescent health.
- Ms. Anne Marie Malone, Assistant Professor in General Nursing and Educational Facilitator PG Dip/ MSc in Specialist Nursing (Orthopaedics)
- Dr Louise Gallagher, Assistant Professor & Director of Midwifery programmes.
- Dr Margaret Dunlea, Assistant Professor in Midwifery.

Three meetings were held in 2023/24, September 2023, February 2024 and March 2024.

The following courses were TCPHI Accredited

- Advanced Cert Special Purpose Award in Phlebotomy (TUH)
- Foundation Course in Intensive Care Nursing (SJH)
- Foundation Course in Thoracic Nursing (SJH)
- Foundation Programme in Cardiovascular Nursing (SJH)
- Medical Surgical Nursing Programme (SJH)
- Foundation Course in Emergency Department Nursing (SJH)
- Fundamentals in Cancer Surgery Course (SJH)
- Nurses Rotation Programme (SJH)

A key decision the Committee made this year is that they cannot give retrospective accreditation to programmes such as pilot programmes that have already been run. The guidance document was revised to state this along with a reminder to applicants to submit 'one merged document' including appendices when making an application.

CONCLUSION

The strengths of TCPHI are the people within the research centre and associated collaborators. The academics, administrative staff and the post-doctoral researchers demonstrate creativity, innovation, team work and are passionate about promoting nurse-led collaborative research, promoting innovation, and sharing their expertise with their colleagues and students. We also acknowledge the pivotal roles, contributions and partnerships of our nursing colleagues and health service users who ameliorate our research findings and are part of the TCPHI team.

"Alone we can do so little; together we can do so much."
