

The language puzzle: Infant language acquisition

Jean Quigley

Lecture & Lecturer Overview

Jean Quigley is Associate Professor, Co-Director of the Infant and Child Research Laboratory, and Director of the Psychology Conversion Course (H.Dip.Psych) in the School of Psychology at Trinity College Dublin. Her research interests are in the psychology of language, with particular reference to early first language acquisition and to language development in the context of neurodevelopmental disorders. Her current projects focus on the critical role of parent-infant interaction for language development.

Select Week
1	7	12
2	8	13
3	9	14
4	10	15
5	11	16
6

Date

14 October 2026