School of Social Work and Social Policy

Why study social studies at Trinity College Dublin

Social Studies is a challenging and a rewarding field and requires a personal commitment to the ideals and values of the social work profession. Students in the BSS are guaranteed small group teaching in social work modules, individual input from active academics and practicing social workers and an interactive class environment. The programme is committed to inclusiveness and diversity in its student group. Overseas, mature and non-traditional students are welcomed.

The School of Social Work and Social Policy offers small classes to promote engaged learning. The school has one of the smallest student to staff ratios in the entire university with only 21 students per every staff member and an average lecture size of 45.

Is this the right course for you?

Social Studies could be the right course for you if you wish to work in a caring and challenging profession. Most importantly it is the right course for you if you believe you have the ability to problem solve, a willingness to make challenging decisions alongside a strong desire to effect positive change. Potential applicants are advised to find out what social workers do before they apply.

Programme content

This course introduces you to a wide range of social science subjects in the Junior Freshman (first) year, and then increases the number of social work subjects in the following three years. Teaching methods are varied and interactive and draw on your personal and practice experience.

The Freshman years

Junior Freshman (first year) subjects include introductions to social work, psychology, social policy, sociology, economic policy and political science. All first year students are required to undertake 30 hours of volunteering during their first year to build practical experience and help them begin to apply what they are learning in a real world situation.

In Senior Freshman (second year), core subjects include social work theory and practice, law for social workers and psychology. Students undertake a 10 week placement at the end of their second year.

What our graduates say

*"To those looking for a comprehensive, challenging, diverse and relevant degree,
this may be the one for you".*

Leah Keogh

The Sophister Years

Junior and Senior Sophister (third and fourth) year subjects include:

Family and child care studies

Social policy

Sociology

Mental health

Equality issues

Group work

Human rights law

Social work theory and practice, including counselling skills and practice workshops

Placements in the final two years run for 1000 hours (500 hrs per placement) and are generally undertaken from September - December in each of the final years.

Placements

In years two, three and four, students undertake a placement in a different social service agency under the supervision of an experienced practitioner. These placements provide practice experience and an opportunity to develop and apply the skills and knowledge acquired in college. Placement in year two takes place in the summer vacation. Placements in the final two years run in the first semester of each year.

Admissions requirements

School leavers who reach the CAO points (or equivalent) needed for entry. School Leaver applicants should enter BSS (TR 084) on their CAO application form.

Mature students and international students eligible to apply for the course.
