

Classical Civilisation as a New Minor Subject

Details for the Academic Year 22/23

Why take this New Minor Subject?

You will take Classical Civilisation as New Minor Subject if you are interested in the literature, thought and culture of Ancient Greece and Rome. You will enjoy this subject if you are passionate about literature; if you want to acquire an understanding of the past and its influence; if you would like to engage with the mythology, poetic imagination, depth of thought and historical value of two civilisations that shaped the western world.

What will I learn?

On this pathway, you will take 60 ECTS in Classical Civilisation across Years 2 to 4. Students lay firm foundations in Year 2 when they first join Classical Civilisation as a Minor pathway. You are introduced to the subject with four 5-ECTS modules that provide an overview of the subject and related methodologies (ancient history, literature, and mythology). In each of the Sophister years you will take two 10-ECTS thematic modules that explore how the Greeks and Romans saw themselves and other cultures; how they tried to make sense of the world around them through philosophy and religion; how they thought about politics and ideology, ethnicity and identity, life and death. You will develop a thorough knowledge of the classical world and learn how to approach critically Greek and Roman literatures in their historical and cultural contexts. You will learn how to analyse ancient texts both as literature and as gateways into culture and thought, to discuss key themes of relevance to both the ancient and modern world, and to refine your analysis of texts through more specialised skills and methodologies. All texts are studied in translation and no knowledge of Greek or Latin is required.

What will I do?

After a solid introduction to the Greek and Roman worlds and to the skills and approaches required to acquire a comprehensive and interdisciplinary perspective on classical culture, you will have an opportunity to focus on specific themes and literary genres. All modules are research-led and taught through a mixture of lectures, practical classes, and small-group seminars, which encourage lively discussion and the development of independent thinking.
